Based on "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward and written with his cooperation, "High Spirits" combines the wit of Noel Coward's original intact script, with the peppy jazz music of the 1960's.

When writer Charles Condomine hosts a séance conducted by eccentric medium Madame Arcati in the hope that he'll learn her tricks so he can use the information in his new novel, she falls into a trance and unwittingly conjures the spirit of his late wife Elvira. Because only Charles can see her, Charles's present wife Ruth does not believe him, until Elvira starts to play poltergeist type tricks to frighten her. Can Ruth find a way to get rid of Elvira before the real reason for Elvira's return is revealed.
